Conservatism.

We are called Radicals, and we do not quarrel with the name. One must be something less than man, who would not be radical now. When a whole structure of society and Government, under which twelve millions of people lived, has fallen on account of radical defect in the foundation, we should be ashamed to be found trying to replace the quicksand and to relay the crushed fragments of the old rotten sleepers. When the roots are laid bare, a man's work is at the root.

But we are conservatives after the straitest sect, and that is the reason why we are strait Republicans. Some people seem to think that the only conservative element in the world is salt. Salt is very good to preserve dead things. If all we wish is to keep the lifeless tissue until it is convenient to eat it, there is nothing better for our purpose. Salt will check the process of nature and preserve the form of death. But if we have a live horse, and wish to keep him gallant and strong, we will not salt him down. Conservatism in his case means clover and corn, exercise and training. If a State is dead or dying of incurable consumption, as Rome was when Julius Cæsar undertook its cure, it wants salt; we must have something to check the morbid action which we cannot cure, so that the sick man shall be as long as possible in dying as possible. In the old Roman Republic the arrogant spirit of slaveholders had gone on until it domineered over the world, and of course the heart was incurably diseased. The virtue of Cicero, or Cato, or Seneca, could not save it; Slavery had struck from the hand to the heart, and Rome must have a master. She received a master, and under such despots as even Nero and Domitian, the forms and movement of a free state were still retained and acted for hundreds of years after the Republic was dead.

There is an older and a better conservatism. When God had formed man of the dust of the ground, he did not stuff the beautiful image in the Dead Sea; salt it in. He breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul; and the living soul has preserved man upon the earth ever since, not as salt preserves, by keeping the same dead matter, but as life preserves, by continually changing the matter. Adam outlived fifty bodies, if his body changed as physiologists say that our bodies do; and man has outlived more than fifty generations of men, and yet mankind is young.

And the glory of its struggle is a young nation, which has just proved the vigor and the soundness of its life by throwing off the hereditary disease of nations. What is conservatism for such a people? We know of no other conservatism for a live man or a live nation except a living soul; and a living soul must have living principles. A soul lives on ideas; and it is healthful, and great, and vigorous and virtuous, or mean and sickly or dead, according to the character of the ideas on which it feeds, and exactly there is hidden the key of the future. Men have always felt that the utmost earthly happiness of the race was in some way wrapped in the bud of national organization; and so they have freely died for their countries. They have died in vain, for the nations have only stood at the brazen gate of the carcase, uttering a fruitless jargon; none of them have yet spoken the elder sesame which will open the way to liberty. And yet not in vain have all the martyrs died. In their very dying lay the principle of the devotion of man to mankind, which if it could find a voice, would break the bond. Hope is not dead as long as there are martyrs to die. This young nation stands forth with its word, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." The old gate of Doubting Castle opens, and millions see the light and breathe the air as never before. We are free now if we will; but that gate, as it opened, made such a creaking that it waked Giant Despair, who hastily rising to pursue his prisoner, felt his limbs to fail, for his fits took him again, so that he could by no means go after them. We stand by the open gate; there is the poor giant, writhing in his fits. We see how one word has hurt him, and how fearfully he raves of what he would do if he could. Shall we take back the word which has made him so much trouble, and go and comfort the sufferer until the gate shuts back again upon the prisoners, and the giant is a giant again and we have restored the "Union as it was"?

That is not what we understand by conservatism. We believe that our nation has a living soul; and that the word of life for that soul is, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Our nation exists simply to embody that law, and to execute it by its power in our domain, and by its influence all over the world. There is no national greatness to which that law will not raise us. There is no debasement to which a denial of that law would not sink us. Therefore we, as strict and earnest conservatives, will be content with nothing short of the full acceptance of that law, as the paramount rule of our public life.

Though we feel warmly in the case, we have none of those long forebodings, terminating in darkness, which make the usual mood of those who are called Conservatives. We have faith in God and in our nation. It has laid hold of the key of promise and opened the prison door, and it will not shut it again. If any individuals choose to go back, let them go, if they can. The nation knows what it means, and they cannot shut the door, and as the millions come out—over them, if need be—they will at last fall into line. And they will be welcome. The deliverance is for all men.

Our confidence in the future of the nation does not rest merely upon our assurance, that it will upon the whole be true to the principle of its life. A man does not become strong and efficient without work and opposition; and we should fear a feeble and impure life for a nation, unless the principle has the benefit of exercise and struggle. We have work, heavy work, not too much, but enough for us. The angels see nothing now, in the practical carrying out of the work of the Son of Man, more beautiful than the quiet earnest with which the true men and women of the North are bending themselves to the work of educating the freedmen. And this is only a single illustration, either of what is being done or of what is to be done in the realization of thorough peaceful works of good will, of a system of things in which an entire nation, and then a whole world shall have the opportunity, and the ability, and the disposition to enjoy the fruits of Christian civilization.—Chicago Tribune.

SPEECH OF GEN. HAWLEY.—A correspondent of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican gives the following incident in the late Union Convention in Connecticut:

A pleasant episode in the afternoon's proceedings was the presentation of a handsome silk flag by the State Central Committee to the town of Portland for making the largest relative increase in the Republican vote at the last election. The flag was presented by N. D. Sperry of New Haven, Chairman of the Committee, and a citizen of the town proudly received it. Immediately after, General Hawley was introduced, and after the cheering had subsided, made the following eloquent and tasteful speech of acceptance, which was often interrupted with applause:

Mr. President and gentlemen of the Convention: I am profoundly sensible of the great honor you have this day conferred upon me. You know what I have been. Fully aware of all the facts, you have generously selected me for this responsible position. All my energies of body and mind shall be devoted to my appropriate work. The consciousness of this purpose, the certainty that I shall have your kind and constant advice and support, and the character of the honorable and able men whom you have associated with me upon the ticket, give me the required confidence to accept the position. I am well aware that this nomination is in great measure due to the

A Plain Duty

The Union candidates for the various offices to be filled at the next election are now before the people The personal rivalries that always accompany the primary movements of a campaign have been passed upon by the authoritative voice of the Union party The plain duty of Union men is to accept the arbitrament of the convention and to unite their very best efforts now to make the choice of the Union party also the choice of the State There can be no two opinions on this point among men who appreciate the magnitude and importance of the great national contest, out of which the Union party has so gloriously brought the country In that contest, the Union men of Oregon have been a component part of the great Union party of the Nation through whose efforts the Government has been saved, while the Democratic faction here has, through the whole struggle, united its voice and cast its strength with the enemies of the Government.

Some of the issues of the war have remained to the times of peace, while new issues have sprung from the results of war, calling for the continued and united efforts of all the friends of the Union, that they may be united so as to secure the permanence, stability and prosperity of the Government so fatally imperilled and so nobly defended, The Democracy are still wedded to the gods they worshipped before the war, and bent upon thwarting the realization of the benefits that should accrue to the Government from its victory. Are Union men prepared to look on with complacent inaction, now, and see the Democracy seize the ruins of the Government it could not destroy, and carry it backward to its action when corruption and treasonry ruled the hour? If not, they will bury the memory of personal jealousies, ignore the counsel that would divide, and, uniting themselves as in solid phalanx, will march to the battle with a common device to rout once more the friends and defenders of nullification and secession Certain victory will reward us, if we stand firmly together; certain defeat awaits us if we foolishly divide. The friends of the Union everywhere are looking for Oregon to do her whole duty. The common judgment of the Nation will condemn her if she does not do it. Her votes in the United States Senate will affect the destinies of the Nation equally with any other, State, and she will be equally responsible if the Government shall go down in shame through a Democratic triumph.

Let every Union man seriously ask himself what is, after the extreme perils of the last five years, he is prepared to do the fruits of any Union triumph are? Hatred to the men whom he knew to be enemies of the Union. Let every man remember the noble dead who went older daily down to fifty graves, that all the survivors might have a Government regenerated, free, noble and happy, and let the inspirations of that memory nerve him to the above every consideration but that of duty to his country.

A New Party.—We confess to thinking that the party which carried the Government safely through the late terrible struggle is good enough for us, and that we have no desire to go searching after strange Gods. It seems, however, that there are a few persons, spasmodic Union men while the war [illegible] who are now groping backward among the effete ideas of conservatism for a place on which they can stand, naturally. They were not Union men from sound convictions of right and the promptings of patriotism, but because they could not withstand the current of public opinion, so they were so constitutionally that they fell only one step where there was also room. These were safer elements of strength to the Union party and can now be no gain to it than to Buchanan should they get land with their old staff in a new party. Let such wind go where they naturally belong, back to the Copperheads, with whom they would have remained had not that faction been in a minority. They held it in bad odor because it was in a minority and not because of its disloyalty and treachery to the ideas of a republican Government Should that faction again become numerically dominant, these conservative, new-party adventurers would be instantly seized with the wildest admiration of its principles They suddenly think that with their help the Democracy could [illegible] It may be that the [illegible] Copperheads and such Union men as we are speaking of, constitute a majority in the United States but we can hardly think so meanly of the people as that. If they are a majority, the war has been fought in vain and it would have been cheaper to surrender to rebel dictation at first.

Of one thing we are confident: No good Union man can deliberately associate himself in party politics with the Copperheads Whoever does so, demonstrates, not that he has changed, but that he has been all the time rotten at heart The "new party" scheme is a Copperhead invention and no man who is Union at heart will have any thing to do with it. Let it be left to those waiters on Providence whose only care is to watch for the turning of tides, success being everything and principle nothing with them; whose facility is not in the way of sopping with Jesus or driving a profitable trade with Caiphas Let them rush on as fast as they choose into the yawning graves which public opinion will dig for them

A Letter Wanted.—The Democrats of Myrtle Creek precinct Douglas county, had an appointment, not long since to meet for the purpose of forming a club When the time arrived nobody went and no club was organized. Jimmy you must write a letter for your Myrtle Creek friends, giving the most cheering account of large secessions and prevailing enthusiasm Don't neglect it, Jimmy Myrtle Creek must be redeemed if it costs you the biggest kind of a whopper.

Personal.—Capt A W Waters of the Linn county company of Oregon Infantry called on us last evening. He is on his way up the Willamette, on a visit to his old home He speaks of the Linn county boys as being in good health and spirits

Lieut Balch of Capt Waters company of Oregon Infantry has been mustered out of service so we hear

The Democracy at the Dalles since they satisfactorily settled, in Jo Teal's case, what constitutes a genuine Democrat have concluded to make a partisan contest for the municipal offices of the Dalles The Union men have taken measures to nominate a ticket composed of men who have not been all the time secessionists and rebels On that issue the battle is to be fought.

Somebody showed us a labored article in the Herald of day before yesterday remarking "There is evidently an effort but I don't see the point" There was no point in it except the full stop at the end That was a decided hit

State Items

The Democrats of Yamhill county in County Convention elected Dr White W T Newby, D Powell Samuel Kinney Dr Ambrose and Andrew Callior delegates to the Democratic State Convention

We have not been able to get a full report of the proceedings of the Union State Convention as most of the wire being down but we can state in addition to our dispatches of yesterday that Judge Wilson was the President and H W Scott Secretary

The stage from Canyon City brings news that the miners were doing but little on account of damages to their flumes and ditches The hill diggings on Middle Bork are yielding well

Passengers by the stage report that the weather at the Dalles yesterday and day before as decidedly in the ascendant during town in true Webfoot style and the creeks and river rapidly rising

We learn that at the meeting of Union citizens of the Dalles, to nominate a municipal ticket the following gentlemen were selected to beat the Democracy Teal Copperheads For Mayor, G B Gilman for Recorder, H Catley; for Treasurer Charles S Miller for Marshall, Chas Kooler, and for Councilmen R H Wood, Geo Liesle D Handley, J S Mosharland and L Wangate

The Coroner's Jury called to inquire into the cause of death of Louis Loheide returned for a verdict that he died in an epileptic fit

The Mountaineer of yesterday says The Canyon City stage in attempting to cross the South Fork of the John Day's last Sunday, capsized Wells, Fargo & Co's treasure box, some baggage belonging to the passengers were lost, and only with difficulty were the horses and passengers saved. The stream was very high and rapid and shortly after driving in the stage swung round and turned over, the horses swam to and climbed the opposite bank, and everybody got out the best way they could. The passengers, with the assistance of some packers who were camped near at hand, and who threw ropes to those still on the wagon, pulled the stage up bodily over a high bank against which it lodged. The amount of treasure lost is not known, and cannot be until word is received from the agents at Canyon City

Two men named John Grubb and C B Smith, got into a row at Canyon City on the 23d, first words then blows, and then pistols, being the means resorted to by both parties. Grubb, while in the act of gouging out Smith's eye, was shot in the groin and died in about an hour Smith was arrested, examined and acquitted, the act of shooting having been shown to be in self defense.

The telegraph line was down all day Thursday in Southern Oregon, and yesterday it was broken somewhere this side of Salem, so that communication was open only to Oregon City. The severe storm prevailing was the cause of it It is said that all the rivers, creeks and rivulets are high and still rising The storm prevails all the way through to the Sacramento Valley

The Restoration Question.—One of the Union State resolutions declares that the people of the States lately in revolt should be restored to the full enjoyment of their political and civil rights at the earliest moment compatible with national safety To this we heartily agree President Johnson thinks some of the Southern representatives ought to be admitted at once and the Democracy demands that they shall all be admitted immediately, without regard to any question except as to regularity of credentials of election, holding that Congress can only pass upon that as a question of fact We differ with them, because Congress is not only the judge of the qualifications of its own members but because it is constitutionally the embodiment of the great legislative power in the people and may, as such judge of questions of lawful necessity which must affect for good or evil, the whole people If the public exigencies are such as to require the exercise of doubtful powers, such exercise is safest in the hands of Congress, and where the exigency is such as to evidently require action in the nature of legislation, none but the legislative power has any business with it The examination of credentials simply, and the admission of a member, are in the nature of legislation and none but Congress can touch the question. The matter of admitting the Southern representatives, then, is resolved into mere a question of policy than one of constitutional obligation. It is simply whether the national safety will be imperiled by their admission To judge intelligently on this point we need to know the temper of such representatives and the people who have sent them If the representatives and their constituents have become loyal, and offer sufficient guarantees of future good faith toward the Government, let them be admitted. If not, let them stay out until they become so changed

What is the prevailing testimony as to the present feeling in the late rebel States? It is of such a nature as to satisfy even President Johnson that he cannot restore habeas corpus or with draw the military The concurrent evidence from almost every part of the South is in accord with the following from an army officer in Mobile, Alabama He writes to the Commercial Advertiser of Buffalo

The policy of reconstruction now going on is work thrown away It will never succeed These people are now as rebellious as they ever were and more than they were four months ago I have been through a greater part of this State and some of Mississippi and there is no use in disguising the fact that a newish to live under the United States Government I mean no one of the Southern people, except the blacks Why, our Constitution cannot be forced with out exciting a mutiny; and I see a flag has been displayed in this city except by the United States authorities I am ashamed to say that some of our officers object to doing these things, because it exasperates the people Change such a feeling just right in keeping the peace They ought never to be reconstructed in Congress until this same ill shall have passed away for they never will be loyal until they are dead

This state of things may change, and we hope it will speedily but until it does will not the national safety be jeopardized by surrendering to them the unrestricted management of public affairs?

Very Proper.—Gen John Adair is one of the men selected to nominate a Democratic State ticket at Portland next week He is the father of Lieut Adair who deserted his commission in the regular army when ordered to service against the insurgent enemies of the country and the man who at the said counseled his son to such desertion He is also the father in law of Col Wallace of the Confederate army also a deserter from the U S Army Having thus shed two helpers of the rebellion and himself given it the moral strength of his ardent sympathy he is a very proper person to assist now in selecting a Democratic State ticket To make the Democratic crowd complete he will no doubt also be made a delegate Together they might be able to instruct the younger delegates how the highest proof of Democratic patriotism consists in giving material aid and comfort to the enemy and how to shoot the flag of one's country in treason

Northward Emigration.—The California papers are making energetic efforts to stay the emigration from that State to the mines on our eastern border but the attempts are with at best a series of profitable clean ups big lumps and rich lie ourselves in various parts of that State are powerless to arrest the steady flowing tide of Californians hitherward The roads to our mines are scarcely travelled from the winter blockade yet hundreds are already on the road making their way through mud and snow and thousands more are following The glory of California has passed away and become the heritage of Oregon Idaho and Montana

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

READ AND REFLECT.

Make sure of Health "But how?" you ask;
We answer in an easy task,
Strengthen the STOMACH and sustain
The NERVES the servants of the brain
The LIVER keep in a true play
And regulate from day to day
Each organ all in Nature's plan,
Brace an[illegible] refresh the INNER MAN
And like a watch that's kept in chime
By constant care will ruddiest time
The system's tone as I strength renew,
And thoroughly chase the spirits blue
Have you the pallor, can this be done?
This Victory over Disease be won?
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS we reply
In HEALTH'S SUPREME PROTECTION—TRY!

As a means of regenerating the disordered and enfeebled system regulating every function of the internal organs, rewish ing the depressed spirits, invigorating the constitution, and [illegible] ing life no medicinal preparation, either of the past or the present time, has been so completely and universally successful

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS,

Against the vapors foul prepared
That fever-taint the heavy air
Drink not unmixed the water found
In prairies, wells or marshy ground
If sedentary toil you ply,
Nature you must assist—or die—
For when deberred from due flow
For artificial aid she cries
Medicine a grand purpose and intent
Is cheerful evil to check:
And if you'd be relieved or spared
From ills that crush the unprepared,
Hostetter's Bitters use—for note
They are the surest antidote.

To set at defiance the miasma of unhealthy soils, the poison of unwholesome water, the effluvia of crowded work-rooms and factories, and the baneful influence of sedentary employments, it is only necessary to be supplied with

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Dyspepsia's pangs, that rack and gride
The body, and depress the mind:
Agues that as they go and come
Make life a constant martyrdom;
Colics and dyscentric pains
Neath which the strongest man's vigor wanes;
Bilious complaints, those tedious ills,
Nature conquered yet by drastic pills;
Dread Diarrhoea that cannot be
Cured by destructive remedy;
Slow constitutional decay
That brings Death's liberty, day by day;
Nervous prostration mental gloom—
Heralds of madness or the tomb;
For these—though mineral nostrums cry
Means of Relief at least we try,
Hostetter's Bitters—medicine sure,
Not to torment, alone, but cure.

In dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious complaints, constitutional and nervous debility, constipation, or sick headache, and in all complaints of Stomach or Bowels, proceeding from climate or intemperateness of the body, the only ground remedy and safe relief is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

To wanderers on sea or land,
From Polar shore to Tropic strand,
To households here in regions new,
And dwellers in great cities, too,
To soldiers in camp, fort [illegible]
Who need against disease a shield;
To miners, California bound,
And litters of sea, quarantined;
To feeble wives of fragile mold,
To young and middle aged, and old;
To those in health, who would enjoy
Heaven's best gifts without alloy;
To all the strengthless, weak and pale,
Who droop yet know not what they ail,
Hostetter's Bitters we prescribe
As Health's most potent stipend.

If there is any value in public opinion, or any weight in medical testimony, the very best and most favorable can be given in behalf of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters. Consult your own interest, and employ none but

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN will be issued this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California—a selection of the most interesting matter appearing in THE DAILY OREGONIAN—full of reliable news from all points and the most copious and varied information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other journal in Oregon; and in the particular of commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable and more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon and the Pacific Coast.

THE BIG BEND.—VICTORIANS AFRAID THE DESCRIPTION.—We are inclined strongly to the belief that the whole object of Victorians talking about their routes to Big Bend is for the purpose of gathering there a host of miners for the express purpose of "Bleeding them. The following is our authority for this theory. We quote from the Colonist of March 18th:

The ill fated steamer Cariboo that blew up in August, 1864, while loading the harbor for Fraser river has, after being laid up in Binary river since been refitted by her present owners Messrs Dougall & Boyd and was yesterday successfully launched for the next season. The Cariboo is a particularly handsome steamer with low and good machinery. She will be a fast sailer and will no doubt be one of the favorite boats of the Big Bend. Should there be anything of a rush this way to Big Bend she will be completed in time to share some of the plunder." In the above extract from the Colonist of the 18th inst. the following from Clinton—a place in their much-vaunted route [illegible] before the public in columns advertising it in the Sacramento Union and other California papers as well as in the [illegible] of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce—[illegible] recently fast closing up the mountains. The lakes are frozen over solid. The weather is cold. Men are coming in daily. If the rush continues much suffering must ensue." To the above an extract from Yale, written by Mr. [illegible] to the British Columbian which says: "Use your influence to stop travel to Big Bend. The foothills in the canyons are high enough, and the lake is frozen over while provisions are scarce. Mr. [illegible] Wright also writes to the Victoria Chronicle that [illegible] stated at Cache Creek, on their way [illegible] very practicable route to Big Bend. We quote [illegible] objects in writing to you to check the [illegible] flow up here. A great number of people [illegible] employment from most this place, which [illegible] gives them. I have now up in my yard and [illegible] ...8000 than I can use. Nearly one [illegible] here, without means or provisions. At [illegible] would be no reason that graders cannot work, [illegible] there will be great suffering. The [illegible] in search of provisions and the roads are [illegible] as there are Shuswap Lakers from a [illegible] of two feet, and Kamloops nearly as thick. At [illegible] of the former lake the snow is four feet in depth and [illegible] to be six at the diggings. In the three expeditions [illegible] persons should remain below will they come on their own supplies." Can anything be more criminal than the outrageous proceeding of the Victoria Board of Commerce in this matter? The latest [illegible] Big Bend is furnished to the Victorians by Mr. [illegible], a special correspondent who left Wild River on the 14th of February last who did not visit Victoria by the advertised route. As his own [illegible] statements show Mr Nelson traveled to Big Bend from the diggings by the way of Colville. The following is his report of the road down "snowshoeing all the way." From Kootenay to Fort Shepherd [illegible] the snow from three to four feet deep; on the summit (about 5 miles) it was fifteen feet deep. From Shepherd [illegible] about one foot; from Colville to Rock Creek there is hardly any snow; from Rock Creek to [illegible] about three feet of snow, from Similkameen to Hope, an average from two to fifteen feet. Our [illegible] snow-shoes for over 400 miles." In further [illegible] it is [illegible] that Mr. Nelson traveled from Colville to Victoria via Portland? Why should he go by way of Similkameen and Hope when a much safer, easier, and cheaper route was open by way of Columbia river? If the truth was known we venture to assert Mr. Nelson passed through this city just [illegible] Mr. Work does when he travels to Shepard, [illegible] the Hudson's Bay Company ship their supplies to [illegible] Another item at the time in this connection [illegible] for the 4th. The Victoria Chamber of [illegible]—But save the name—quite a great deal [illegible] rapids that beset the travel to Big [illegible] the route via the Columbia river, and set a circle [illegible] extent on their maps, around the mouth of the [illegible] which says: Beware of this "Dangerous [illegible] as stipulated on the Fraser river." The 5th [illegible] the Colonist of March 7th, answers the query: [illegible] from gentlemen who arrived yesterday by the [illegible] that the steamers Reliance and Lillooet, on [illegible] the river on Wednesday last, both came to [illegible] The [illegible] got aground off Somass and received [illegible] It was said that the entire length of one [illegible] planks was torn off. The Lillooet took all [illegible] and on ascending Shuswap Lake ran ground [illegible] for. The steamer Onward reached New [illegible] on Saturday evening at 6 P. M., and left [illegible] at 8 for Yale and also intended assistance to [illegible] Won't the Chamber of Commerce try [illegible] they are at present engaged in [illegible] men, who are foolish enough to be swindled [illegible] their schemes.

[illegible] OF THE 1865 SCHOOL FUND.—The treasurer of [illegible] County has reported $6,306 21 in coin and [illegible] to be distributed among the several [illegible] of the county. Twenty-one districts have made their report to Prof. Powers, Superintendent of the [illegible] of the county, who has made the apportionment, giving $4 to each, and 90 cents in currency, to [illegible] between four and twenty years of age. The number of children is 23 per cent greater. [illegible] of money is 26 per cent less, than was the amount apportioned to each district [illegible]

CHURCH ARRANGEMENTS.—Yesterday was Good Friday throughout the Easter Sunday. To-day is the last of the fast of Lent. The object of fasting, which is a fast of forty days [illegible] Easter, has been disregarded for [illegible] the first year, the number of forty days [illegible] to Easter, [illegible] reference to the Savior's forty days fast in the wilderness, to the forty days of the [illegible] granted to the Ninevites [illegible] fasting of the Jews, [illegible] by Moses and Elias. The [illegible] fasting in sackcloth and ashes, and [illegible] by some, is of Saxon origin, and implies [illegible] when the days "lengthen," others [illegible] origin, and include "drawing." The [illegible] is called by some writers the "Christian [illegible] The name is of Teutonic origin, derived from [illegible] Ostera, but according to both [illegible] name from the Saxon. The [illegible] different in regard to the time of celebrating [illegible] the churches of the west observing the true [illegible] the full moon of Nisan, without taking account of the day on which the passover was celebrated. The [illegible] churches [illegible] materially on the disputed [illegible] when, after many years the [illegible] to the full moon of Nisan, and [illegible] to the Atlantic Bishops to conform to the rule of [illegible] church. This they refused to do, and controversy was the [illegible] After [illegible] question was again discussed, and finally decided for the whole church by adopting the rule which makes Easter-day to be always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after March 21st. If the full moon happens on a Sunday then Easter day is the Sunday after. By this arrangement Easter may come as early as March 22d, or as late as April 25th. Good Friday is always the last Friday in Lent, and the Friday before Easter Sunday which will account for the [illegible] last year on April 14th, this year on March 30th, and next year on April 19th.

"MR. HOSS" IN CHICAGO.—A German artist of merit [illegible] to pass an opinion concerning a painting [illegible] lately seen Hierstadt's Mt Hood, and writes in a [illegible] to [illegible] city as follows about the picture: "I saw Mr. Isidor's Mt Hood a short time ago in Chicago. It is a [illegible] picture, but looks no more like the scenery than Church's Heart of the Andes" does. After seeing [illegible] announced the criticism in the New Path a humbug. The man who wrote it did not know so much about art as [illegible] does, (an Indian boy of this city.) I pronounced Mr. Isidor's painting and the handling of the light and shade is perfect. Instead of its being impossible to know [illegible] time of day and the direction of the sun you can see [illegible] at a glance. The only thing I can criticise about the picture is one of its greatest beauties. In one corner of [illegible] picture there is a golden light thrown on the trunks of the trees and in all the other parts the lights are [illegible] grayish which seems to me to be a very impossible thing. I never saw such a thing in nature at any rate—[illegible] I believe[illegible] once also over the [illegible] ground of the picture there are about 150 elk in a drove [illegible] also seems to me very improbable. Did you ever see so many together in the mountains? I venture to say you have seen more elk than Hierstadt ever did." We are led to believe that the picture is a caricature. The [illegible] probably attempted to improve nature and has [illegible] it believing our noble mountain which is not [illegible] land by any who have ever seen the original. Elk [illegible] band together on prairies but not so in [illegible] stairs.

CITY ORDINANCES.—We publish this morning by order of the Board of Councilmen An Ordinance providing for the location of shade and ornamental trees in the city of Portland, approved March 23d 1866; An Ordinance to prevent and remove obstructions from sidewalks—approved March 27th 1866; and An Ordinance to amend Ordinance No 170—approved March 29th, 1866. These are matters of interest to the public, and attention is called to them.

FOR VICTORIA.—The sloop Alfred Crosby Capt Sealy is now [illegible] to sail for Victoria on Tuesday next. The sloop Pacific Capt Gage now discharging cargo at the foot of Alder street, will also sail for the same port on Thursday. Both are fine vessels, and both are Oregon built. The Pacific has ample accommodation for passengers, and we should like to see each obtain full cargoes. [illegible] will take notice of the advertisements.

ARRIVAL.—The Mary Davis Davis Master is at the wharf at the foot of Ash street, having arrived [illegible] with a cargo of boat material from Westport, [illegible] to the Oregon Steam Navigation Company.

Phoenix Insurance.—Mr. A. G. Bradford [illegible] has the right to [illegible] of this [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] the steamer Cayuse Capt Felton on its first trip made at distance up Snake river the present season. The weather was beautiful, sun shining [illegible] and [illegible] during the [illegible] and windows of the steamer enable to be open on the passage. The hills [illegible] with verge of snow and new grass. A large number of [illegible] were [illegible] the river [illegible] and on the [illegible] Lewiston was a scene of [illegible] Messrs Stanley in Bledsoe and others of this city. The return from Lewiston was as pleasant as the passage [illegible] and [illegible] will be [illegible] the river [illegible] with [illegible].

WILLAMETTE THEATRE.—The last night all were treated to a [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] after the play the evening will be [illegible] Max Pray will [illegible] and famed [illegible] by Mr. Ladd [illegible] give all [illegible] to the [illegible] first [illegible] of Mr. Jim [illegible] Dingers will no doubt avail the [illegible] this last opportunity [illegible] of [illegible] for the last and impressive actress who is to be [illegible].

EXPLANATORY.—The author of the Advocate letter [illegible] has not possibly [illegible] we may fill [illegible] with [illegible] letter [illegible] subscribers. If any one [illegible] receive it they will greatly oblige us by sending it to the office or giving us word. PUBLISHING ADVOCATE.

SPRING STAGES.—With the return of spring we may the usual sports. As many be seen by advertisement we are likely to have a big fight, in accordance with rules [illegible] to record.

THE DIFFERENCE.—When the war began Union men adhered to President Lincoln, as their great leader. Democrats opposed him not only as to his acts but also as to every principle upon which he was elected; thus arraying themselves under Jeff Davis as their great leader. Democrats frequently rail [illegible] only at Union men for differing with their leaders in any matter and yearningly ask if such differences are not treason. Without answering that we can safely say that we have never yet discovered any symptoms of treason of that sort among Democrats. They adhere most strictly and faithfully to their leader.

The Herald, yesterday, speaking of the Union State resolutions, says:

We conclude that just such another nine resolves could not well be enunciated without saying less than these.

Well, then we hope they are enough. We are content, and if anybody wants to make nine resolves saying less than these let 'em resolve.

THROAT AFFECTIONS.—A physician writing from New Orleans New York speaking, relative to [illegible] resulting from the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches says: "For alleviating that horrid irritation only felt by those who have suffered from any Bronchial affection and for Hoarseness and Sore Throat to [illegible] free from [illegible] (the gentleman M. D.) is my answer all you claim for them. To avoid disappointment be sure to obtain the genuine Brown's Bronchial Troches.

The great Cincinnati bridge, about to be suspended across the Ohio River, is the boldest in the world, being over 2,000 feet longer than the Suspension bridge over the Niagara river, and 540 feet longer than the Menai Bridge, in England. Several of the Southern States are embarking in manufacturing enterprises with much zeal

The following tough story is from a newspaper in Cheshire, [illegible]

Some body-snatchers were lately found in Norwalk, Connecticut a few nights ago in dig up the body of a young lady who had died suddenly, and they succeeded admirably. But, when they took her out, exposure to the cold air aroused her from a cataleptic fit, which had been mistaken for death. The resurrectionists fled and the walked home, but her parents could not be induced to receive the [illegible] her ghost. A new and [illegible] malady is raging in Russia, and of those attacked by it at least twenty-five per cent die a horrible death. Surgeons describe this of the malady to a species of worm that attacks pigs, and as the disease progresses it literally rots away the [illegible] the new scourge is intensely [illegible] and those it kills, and spread a feeling of intense alarm to pervade all [illegible]

Dr. Taylor, of Richmond, (Baptist) in the columns of the New York Examiner, says "Southern Baptists are desirous of no King in the country concerning which they are charged. They have no conclusion to vote. The deep, broad gulf which [illegible] the nations has been dug by the North, and the North only can fill or bridge it. As long as they occupy their separate position no union can exist.

The Baker and Mrs. Cobb Case.—We find the following significant [illegible] in the Chicago Tribune of the date

The question raised by the trial at Washington of [illegible] Baker for the arrest of Mrs. L. L. Cobb, is simply whether the business of pardon brokerage is legitimate or to the public interest, and one which is consistent with the dignity of the Government and the welfare of the country. If it is, then Mrs. Cobb is a persecuted woman and General Baker is a taxpayer, though doubtless with good intentions. If it is not, then Mrs. Cobb is a pest to public nuisance and General Baker does well to "[illegible]" her. The facts of the case are undisputed. A detective in the employ of General Baker, assuming the alias of Clarence Howell, employed Mrs. Cobb to obtain [illegible] for him. [illegible] the following is a copy of the agreement to procure the pardon:

"[illegible] Nov. 1865. I have this day paid in consideration of the sum of $300, paid to me by Captain Clarence J. Howell, I hereby agree as follows to wit:—To take from Captain Howell his statement in regard to his case and procure for him the full and complete pardon for his offence The money to be paid as follows—$100 in hand, and the remaining $200 on the delivery of his pardon on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock P M Further agree that, in case I do not succeed in getting the pardon as agreed, I will return to him the $100 received of him

WASHINGTON D C, Nov 9 1865.—Received on the within $100 MRS L L COBB

In pursuance of the agreement which was signed on Sunday the pardon was obtained by Mrs Cobb, as her testimony shows, on a personal interview with the President on the following Wednesday. Mrs. Cobb when asked what are her means of influence for obtaining these pardons, coolly answered that "the results of her labor show her means of influence."

Now either Mrs. Cobb has no means of influence with the President and his subordinates but is a mere messenger, charging several hundred dollars for carrying papers to and fro—which any page of the masculine gender would carry for fifty cents in which event she is guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses—or else she has some special means of influence the nature of which is due to the dignity of the Administration and the country that the people should know We are unable to conceive of any such means of influence which would be pure or healthy but this may be the fault of our imperfect conceptions Still less are we able to conceive that any such influence would fail to excite the profoundest indignation in the bosom of that President who ostentatiously rebuked the lower moral standard of all his predecessors from Washington to Lincoln, by returning with a flourish of trumpets a class of presents which they had quietly and politely accepted It must be therefore that the President wholly unaware of the seducing witchery which Mrs Cobb has wrought upon his secretaries and lackeys or to the extent to which it has facilitated her somewhat questionable trade in his signature But now that this matter is made public, now that the people see that General Baker is loss on trial than is his fair prosecutrix and that behind her there rises by inevitable inference the august form of Andrew Johnson, no result which the trial can have will be flattering to the last and most important party to the transaction unless it be a proof that the pardon was a forgery To the general theory of Baker that the pardon brokerage business is a nuisance and ought to broken up all the world will say Amen! His trial may be a mistake by the Court in such a manner, by the suppression of all testimony save to Mrs Cobb's moral character, except upon the single point of her veracity, as to send it to the jury in a garbled condition and secure Baker's conviction The decision of a petit jury has been said to be something not within the reach of human foresight, and certainly Washington petit juries are as unreliable as any General Baker's activity in the service of the past Administration will also prejudice him in the estimation of many of the special friends of the President But no decision that can be rendered by a Washington petit jury will satisfy the general mind that pardon brokerage is a respectable business, that Mrs Cobb is a persecuted angel or that General Baker, in breaking up her pardon stand for the sale of Presidential pardons was acting out of the strict line of his duty

LOYALTY IN KENTUCKY.—The Cincinnati Gazette which has the means of knowing the spirit of Kentucky makes the following remarks in relation to the disloyalty of its Legislature

That the majority of the present Legislature of Kentucky is as disloyal in spirit as any that ever met in Richmond or in South Carolina, is not to be doubted; that it is their desire to persecute, drive out or crush Union men, they have made clearly apparent, and that it is their wish and their intention if possible to re enslave the freedmen, they do not pretend to deny The most popular men with the majority of the Legislature to-day, are returned rebel soldiers who fought through the war to destroy the Government and the most unpopular are returned Union soldiers and Union men who sustained the Government through the bloody struggle for its life

And this is the party which is clamorous for reconstruction, and lashes itself into a rage because the loyal people of the country will not hasten to put into the hands of rebels still red with the blood of our soldiers, the power to legislate for the whole country

KENTUCKY.—The rebel army tried repeatedly to take Kentucky during the war but failed Since the war stopped they have tried again and succeeded Twenty thousand paroled prisoners from Lee's, Johnston's and Hood's armies are now the arbiters of the State, which has become more heartily rebel than South Carolina Thus elections, some recently held in the districts nearest Cincinnati for Senators, and the candidates supported by the rebels succeeded in each The Union vote was as large as never before 861 the Copperheads, swelled by the returned rebels, overbalanced it South Carolina has ratified the constitutional amendment, Kentucky repeatedly and contemptuously rejects it. The State will never give as heavy a pro-slavery majority as she gave McClellan, but she will probably give twenty thousand majority next year and consign her negroes to virtual slavery by Acts of her next Legislature She has not been whipped, South Carolina has, and is by so much the better for it Kentucky badly needs reconstruction.—New York Tribune February 24th

NO LONGER A CITIZEN OF ALBANY.—Thurlow Weed sold his residence in Hanover street on Friday, to Lyman J. Lloyd, for 12 000 He has resided for thirty-five years in this city On Saturday last, Weed purchased a large and elegant mansion at Hatchford, on Twelfth street, near Fifth Avenue New York, for $50,000 He will take up his residence permanently in the metropolis here after.—Albany Argus, Feb 19

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

PORTLAND, March 30, 1866

The weather for the period under review has been very rainy and disagreeable, and for the most part trade has been light in the line of general merchandise Shipbuilding have somewhat stimulated on the Upper Columbia, however in consequence of the opening of navigation to Lewiston The O S N Company have resitted their steamer to accommodate a very greatly increased trade, being five and 60 feet forward, if necessary, 1,500 tons daily, hence there is no detention along the route

The low rates of freight which ruled for a time past on the Willamette, have been [illegible] by the old established rates of the P. T. Company, in consequence of the sale of the interests of the Willamette (opposition) Company, which were [illegible] by the People's Line about two weeks since. The railroad portage at Oregon City will be terminated at the new warehouse of the P T Company, and all freight passing over the route, be subject to [illegible] terms. The Independent Line of Capt A. F Ankeny, will still running on the Willamette above Canemah, and we understand a steamer is to be built [illegible] below the falls, to carry on the business. The advertised rates of the P T Company for freight to Oregon City, two miles, is 50 per ton, but that is understood to be for the purpose of [illegible] the plans of the Independent Line, as special contracts are made with [illegible] at $2.50 per ton over this portion of the route.

Our latest advices from Montana are to March 10th from Virginia City, and to March 15th from Fort Orville. There are no material changes in that section but the demand for all articles of merchandise appeared to be increasing as builders evinced a desire to materially advance prices It is a very safe calculation to presume that the opening of trade will augment receipts, but with a greater proportion the population is likely to be increased, and the decrease in staple articles will not be sufficient to more than nominally change prices The cost of transportation will not be large at the beginning of the spring trade, with Montana, and the most unfavorable construction [illegible] can be placed on this subject seems to throw the palm [illegible] a flight of advantage to Oregon. Shipments cannot be expected from St Louis before June, and purchasers in this market who may forward their stocks at present, will meet with no obstruction on the way, and be able to lay them down at Helena before May 1st The enterprises on the route via White Bluffs, an I Fort d'Orille Lake, are in such a state of forwardness that the traveling community en route for Montana and the entire eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, can go through within fifteen days from this time. The steamboat of Messrs Mosely, Davidson & Co, will be completed by that date, the side streams emptying into Clark's Fork bridged, etc The action of the revenue officers in Montana is still attracting a great deal of attention, and the very heavy sales of some kinds of goods have considerably depressed the markets

Persons not practically conversant with the money markets of the country have a difficulty in forseeing the results of present movement East Some agree in thinking that gold will not rise to a much less figure than ever heretofore and remain without material alteration, while others equally as well versed, hold to the opinion that gold will rise, and that a rise is beyond a question Legal tender notes have continued to range higher during the period passing in review, and are to-day negotiable at 77@79c Money is in demand at current rates of 1@1½ per cent. Exchange on San Francisco ½ per cent Ex change on New York 2½@3 per cent Telegraphic exchange on New York 3@3½ per cent

The Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco have appointed a committee to report on the practicability of abolishing the necessity of 5 per cent for landing and reshipping goods from vessels in that city also of fixing the compensation for collecting general average on $10 000 or less at 5 per cent, and 4½ on the excess over $10 000 This action is to be a movement in favor of Insurance companies; nevertheless, 5 per cent on landing and reshipping seems too high Not so, however the rate on general average to the collection of which none or less risk and responsibility attaches

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, March 30 1866

Our trade with the interior is at present in a very satisfactory state, and it is presumed will continue so not withstanding for the period until review business has been a mawkish dull on account of the very unfavorable weather It would appear that we had had ample rains of late, but the past to days has all rolled in much more and yet the season is in advance of the season of 1865 by several days The markets are generally unchanged Coffee is a shade lower notwithstanding there is an absence of any very large amounts on hand The stock of coffee in San Francisc will this reported large consignments to a direct port and our quotations to day are for Legal tenders in advance of San Francisco and 2 cents in advance of New York

Candles have been dealt in to a limited extent with changes are of a few cents nature The same may be said with regard to soap

A few articles of a miscellaneous character have moved steadily a trifle The Chinese have purchased a small lot of rice and tea which appears to be steady with a fair jobbing sale and the only [illegible] assignment of this nature and occurrence is that they have become short of stock in those branches

We are desirous of making our reports as full as the circumstances of the case will admit and will a view of supplying an inquiry relative to leather [illegible] to prices from those of the leading houses of the city It will be seen that Oregon brands do not fall far below representing an important feature in connection with the best foreign and home supplies

Retail trade as [illegible] ugly is improving. The [illegible] Eggs has caused a slight advance, Vegetables and Game are scarce—California vegetables, such as Asparagus, Green Peas, Shelling etc, are being received by each steamer from San Francisco. We observe that freshly Butter in market, acceptable, comes from San Francisco also. The regular supplies of our dairymen, who are few, are pretty much all consumed through private hands hence but little of a good quality from the down home farms, is thrown upon the market for sale, and being readily taken up, necessitates the importation at extreme rates

There is a very good supply of Fish in market at prices noted above A few speckled beauties have made their appearance from Oregon City the Cascades, and Dowlitz river selling as fast as received, at $2 per dozen.

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, March 30, 1866

It will be observed that there is a tendency in the jobbing market to reduce the price of flour There is no demand of note, except for home consumption, while stocks are large, and being constantly augmented—not a very satisfactory condition for a dull market

The Mercantile Gazette, in commenting on our remarks two weeks since concerning the state of flour and grain markets of this city, says: "Merchants interested in the Oregon trade assure us that not little flour or wheat will be sent to this market from the north, unless a material rise in values take place, from those now current That a better market for breadstuffs is open to them in British Columbia," etc

All our dealers felt inclined to scroll themselves of the benefits of the Victoria market, which is impossible, it would be more profitable to them to ship via San Francisco, as freights by that route might be obtained at $3@$5 while as the rates exist, with but a partial supply for shipping, the price of freight from Portland to Victoria is $10 per ton This is the fix in which we find ourselves, and this the condition of things with regard to our Victoria trade.

Wheat is dull There is no change from our last report advised Millers are not purchasing, and the demand is nominal Oats are firm at prices noted below, with a steady consumptive demand Bacon remains without recommendation There appears to be a good supply in the country, with a pretty fair offering in the valley, but holders in this market generally are firm, and not disposed to sell at ruling figures Recent shipments of stock hogs to the upper Columbia have been quite large

There is a good demand for most articles of produce but the roads are in very bad condition, which precludes the possibility of supplying the demand, at least for the present Eggs, dried fruit and vegetables are advancing
